Provision of courses and other forms of Slovak language education in order to support the integration of UA children and youth. |
| Rationale for the amendment | UNICEF partnership with the Capital City of Bratislava is focused on promoting the inclusion of refugee children and other vulnerable groups in the following areas: |

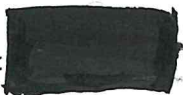

1. Enhanced capacities for coordination and provision of protection and integration services including outreach, relevant support, and establishment of feedback mechanisms
2. Evidence based programming and effective coordination
3. Strengthening the capacities of the municipality in effective refugee response based on children and women rights approach
4. Improved equitable learning opportunities - access to preschool services and provision of play and learning materials for preschool-aged children
5. Improved quality of integration systems, inclusion activities and overall access to education within ECE and primary schools
6. Psychosocial support - Mental health care and psychosocial support for students, teachers and other education personnel in learning environments
7. Integration and education programs to support the merge of UA children and youth with their SK peers
8. Strengthening opportunities for social cohesion and integration of children, young people and their families from Ukraine
9. Effective and efficient management and implementation

The City of Bratislava has implemented activities in all these areas. However, as circumstances have changed in terms of the dynamic nature of the situation and evolving humanitarian needs, the ability to modify the work plan and extend the project timeline has become necessary. This flexibility ensures that strategies and activities can be adapted to meet emerging challenges and that the project remains relevant and effective.

Given the phasing out of support for direct service provision by CSOs and the gradual takeover of activities by the local government as part of the UNICEF transition strategy, it is necessary to broaden the range of partner institutions in the City of Bratislava in the provision of child-centred services and programmes, such as the Assistance and Support Centre or the educational activities for children and youth in the municipality. By pooling different capacities and resources, these partner organisations will strengthen the city's capacities and lead to more comprehensive services. The changing needs of refugee children and families, from emergency to integration services, should also be reflected in the budget in order to address the most urgent issues while focusing capacities to ensure sustainable structures and resources for the coming periods. The detailed list of additional project partners as well as the proposed reallocated budget within the existing activities are listed in the Revised Work Plan of the City of Bratislava (Annex 2).

The extension of the project implementation period will allow for the gradual take-over of the activities and programmes provided by CSOs with the support of UNICEF and will allow for a more sustainable impact on the target population.

| In order to plan for the long term, the City of Bratislava, with the support of UNICEF and the partner CSO Centre for Research on Ethnicity and Culture, is preparing a strategic document on the integration of refugees and migrants in Bratislava, as well as a contingency plan to be better prepared for emergency situations in the future. Both documents reflect lessons learned from the city's experience, which could help focus on activities and services that the city should be able to provide or procure from other actors. The City of Bratislava became a partner in a consortium of six municipalities from four countries that jointly applied for technical assistance (with UNICEF as the preferred partner) on improving access to quality, inclusive services for refugee and migrant children and caregivers - under the European Commission's Technical Support Initiative (TSI) programme. As part of this cooperation and with the support of UNICEF, the City of Bratislava will prepare the action plan for the strategy (including the financial strategy) that will enable the sustainability of established services and programmes for refugee and migrant children and caregivers. At the same time, the City of Bratislava has already started to finance part of the activities from its own budget as part of the long-term sustainability. The City of Bratislava has officially established a department for the support of people with a foreign background. The City of Bratislava also covers a large part of the operating costs of the Assistance and Support Centre from other resources and covers the personal costs of the head of the department, the coordinator of the centre, the production team in the centre and the person working with the administration of the department. The City of Bratislava is aware of the need to continue the services and is looking for a sustainable alternative for the Centre for Refugees and Migrants, covering basic services and referring to other support available in the city. | | |
